

MARTIN McDONAGH'S HANGMEN

2016 Olivier Award winner – Best New Play

What is Harry, Britain's second-most famous executioner, to do now that hanging has been abolished? Set in 1965 in a small pub in the northern British town of Oldham, where Harry has become somewhat of a local celebrity, the answer is a lot more than he bargained for.

Olivier and Oscar winner and Tony Award® nominee Martin McDonagh (The Beauty Queen of Leenane; The Pillowman; The Lieutenant of Inishmore; film: Three Billboards Outside Ebbing, Missouri) is back with HANGMEN, his seventh brilliant play, direct from sold-out engagements in London and New York's Atlantic Theater Company.

"Martin McDonagh is never more serious than when playing the clown.
Hangmen is a deadly serious play that is also chokingly funny!"
