

MARVIN'S ROOM

A comedic drama about the laughter that can shine through life's bleakest moments, Scott McPherson's award-winning play premieres on Broadway, after a successful 1991 off-Broadway run and 1996 Academy Award-nominated film. The story revolves around two estranged sisters—Lee, a single mother raising a troubled teenage son, and Bessie, a caretaker for their elderly bedridden father and his soap opera-obsessed sister—who attempt to reunite for the first time in 18 years after Bessie is diagnosed with leukemia.

From Roundabout Theatre Company's production notes, "Exploring an unsentimental reality with hope, compassion and a dose of wonderfully absurd humor, MARVIN'S ROOM is a life-affirming reminder of the gift we give ourselves when we love unconditionally." Directed by Obie Award winner Anne Kauffman, the production stars Janeane Garofalo and Lili Taylor.
