A MODERN REEXAMINATION OF
ARTHUR MILLER'S THE CRUCIBLE

Sadie Sink (Stranger Things, The Whale) stars in this biting funny and passionate new play from Kimberly Belflower that flips the script on the American classic.

An English class in a high school in a rural town in Georgia is studying The Crucible. The students, however, are more preoccupied with navigating young love, sex ed, and a few school scandals than what's in their curriculum. But as they delve into this literary classic, the class begins to question the play's perspective, especially whether John Proctor is the hero of this masterpiece.

Directed by Tony Award® winner Danya Taymor (The Outsiders), JOHN PROCTOR IS THE VILLAIN is a new comedy from a major new American voice, capturing a generation in mid-transformation, running on pop music, optimism, and fury—and discovering that their future is not bound by the past.
